The Family Is Growing: Meet Quadpackâ€™s New Konjac Sponges!

Mushroom and hemp seed are the trendy skincare ingredients that have joined our natural, biodegradable line of products

Ancient ingredients are a big skincare trend - so why not combine them for a natural and pleasant experience? Inspired by centuries-old beauty rituals, Quadpack has just expanded its Konjac Sponge family with 2 brand new ingredients: Mushroom and Hemp Seed.

A beauty secret well-kept by generations in Asia, Konjac sponges have been rediscovered by customers from all over the world. A natural, gentle product with cleansing, exfoliating and moisturising properties, it has become the star of conscious wellness for its sustainable, natural features. Completely plant-based, the product is 100% biodegradable and free from additives and preservatives.

Made with Agaricus Bisporus, commonly found in Europe and North America, the Mushroom Konjac Sponge carries anti-inflammatory and anti-bacterial properties and it's perfect for treating acne-prone skin and redness. Free from colouring, it has a natural, earthy tone given by the natural mushroom extract.

Providing anti-bacterial effects on sensitive and eczema-affected skin, the Hemp Seed Konjac Sponge improves the hydration of all complexions, without ever feeling heavy in oily skin types. Its neutral colour comes from the hemp seed powder and it's completely free from pigments.

The Mushroom and Hemp Seed Konjac Sponges are available in the half-ball format and can also be customised according to clients' needs and preferences.
