Quadpack sets its sights on China with Yuga partnership

Q-Line packaging range to meet demand for 'Made in Europe' solutions by major Chinese beauty brands

The growth of the Chinese cosmetics industry has prompted Quadpack to commence a commercial push into the domestic market. An agreement with long-term partner Yuga, based near Shanghai, will allow Quadpack to offer its Q-Line range to brands seeking the quality, performance and distinction of products 'Made in Europe'.

The move into China is part of Quadpack's 2020-2025 business strategy, which sets out growth plans in each of its key territories of EMEA, the Americas and the Asia-Pacific region. It follows last year's opening of a sales office in Japan and the appointment of Raj Savji as Managing Director – Asia Pacific, to develop Quadpack's presence in the region.

"China's domestic beauty market is worth €52.5bn and growing fast. What's more, it has shown itself to be incredibly resilient. Since the outbreak of COVID-19 and the subsequent downturn, China has been the first to recover. The market is mature and our products are a great fit. We are fortunate to be able to build on our partnership with Yuga – a relationship based on high levels of trust, shared values and proven results – to accelerate our entry into this market," said Savji.

Beauty packaging manufacturer Yuga has been an official supply partner for Quadpack since 2010 and produces a number of Q-Line references, as well as bespoke projects. Now, Yuga's commercial team will sell the Q-Line portfolio in its home territory, starting with the skincare and make-up ranges, as well as solutions in wood and Sulapac®, an eco-safe biocomposite material.

Q-Line is Quadpack's portfolio of smart, modular packaging solutions, conceived, designed and engineered in Europe. The products are made at its Louvrette factory in Germany and the Quadpack Wood factory in Spain, as well as at the facilities of selected regional partners like Yuga. With Yuga's industrial capacity, components can be stocked, assembled and decorated locally. This inherent flexibility of manufacture and supply allows Quadpack to remain agile and deliver solutions in the region, for the region.

Yuga CEO Victor Wu said: "It's a case of one plus one equalling greater than two. Just as Quadpack has extended our reach globally, our facilities can support Quadpack's growth. We also have 20 years of experience and a strong network in China and we are excited to introduce the Q-Line portfolio to local brands. The larger brands are going global and looking for high-end packaging solutions, particularly in the skincare segment. Those that are of European origin are sought-after commodities."

Yuga has started promoting the Q-Line make-up range and will extend to skincare from April.
