The low-down on deco techniques

Quadpack provides a practical guide to the most important decoration techniques for the personalisation of beauty packaging solutions

First impressions are everything in beauty packaging. The right kind of decoration can give it that all-important differentiation. By applying the right techniques, a standard pack can be transformed, to look entirely unique and in perfect alignment with a brand's identity. So how do you choose what decoration to apply to your packaging solution? Here is a guide to the most important techniques available and when to use them. Be sure to consult your packaging partner, as more than one can be applied to achieve the desired look and feel!
