Yonwoo airless packs for Akademikliniken's skin care formulas

The Akademikliniken Skin Science Centre in Sweden offers the latest in medical skin care, from light peels to advanced laser treatments. The centre uses its own skin care range, the result of extensive research and development by its team of skin therapists, dermatologists and plastic surgeons. The two latest anti-ageing products benefit from the protection of Yonwoo airless technology, in packaging developed by Quadpack.

Pure Lift Serum and Pure Antioxidant Creme are protected from oxidisation and other external contamination thanks to Yonwoo's airless designs. Yonwoo's Check Valve system further prevents back-flow contamination, ensuring the product does not seep back in after outside contact.

For Pure Lift Serum, Quadpack developed a 50ml airless bottle with a classic cylindrical shape. The slimline pack features a rim base and shoulder pump that gives a stable appearance and elegant style. The white colour-matched bottle has a bespoke cap with the logo debossed along the edge. A 'peep' window shows how much serum is left in the bottle, a feature very much appreciated by customers, according to Akademikliniken. Dosage is a perfect 0.20cc per stroke.

For Pure Antioxidant Creme, Quadpack used a 50ml airless jar with a dual structure. The inner container is made of polypropylene for its excellent product compatibility, visible through a transparent outer wall to striking effect.

The jar features an actuator disc for hygienic usage. The disc is pressed down to release a 0.50cc dose with minimal contact, thereby avoiding bacterial contamination.
